POSITION PAPER
Climate finance in ASEAN: state of the art and opportunities
High Level Dialogue on ASEAN-Italy Economic Relations
Manila, the Philippines, November 5-6, 2024

The ASEAN region is among the most vulnerable regions in the world to climate change impacts: according to the Long-Term Climate Risk Index, 3 out of 10 ASEAN countries (Myanmar, Philippines and Thailand) are among the 10 countries most affected by impacts of climate related extreme weather events. Also, challenges are ahead for ASEAN concerning the energy transition, sustainable urban development, water and waste management.

In this context, the goal of ASEAN is to develop a macro-frame of national long-term roadmap to develop synergies and integrate adaptation and mitigation by considering the ASEAN's development context and vision, long-term climate goal, and transition pathways (ACCSP 2023-2030).

In Southeast Asia, most of its around $15 billion climate finance yearly funds are publicly sourced, mainly through national, multilateral, and bilateral DFIs, that today play a highly strategic role for climate finance in developing countries. The Asian Development Bank (ADB), the biggest contributor, provides about one-third of total tracked multilateral finance in Southeast Asia. Philippines, Vietnam, and Indonesia receive the bulk of the climate finance (31%, 32%, and 24% of total climate finance in the subregion, respectively).

On its side, Italy has excellent competencies and know-how to support ASEAN countries in climate finance and in the path towards clean energy transition and net-zero emissions by 2050, also thanks to the role that Cassa Depositi e Prestiti (CDP) can play in bringing the relationship between Italy and the ASEAN countries to a higher level.

ASEAN: an economic power-house

1. The Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), if considered as a single economy, is the 3rd largest economy in Asia and the 5th largest in the world after the US, China, Japan and Germany. Established in 1967, ASEAN includes 10 Member States (Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam) and, with a population of 660 million people, is the 3rd largest region globally, after China and India.
2. Today, ASEAN is currently one of the fastest-growing regions of the world, reporting in the last decade (2012-2023) a GDP growth of +53%. In 2023, the region's GDP reached approximately $3.8 trillion, representing a 3.8% increase from the previous year. For 2024, a growth rate of 4.5% is expected, up to 4.7% in 2025. Vietnam and Philippines are the countries with the highest growth rate forecasted for both 2024 (6.0%) and 2025 (6.2%).¹
3. This growth is expected to be fueled primarily by a surge in tourism and a resurgence in the global semiconductor and electronics industries. Trade performance in 2024 is also projected to be positive, and easing inflation and stabilizing borrowing costs are expected to create a more favorable financial environment, providing additional support to the region's economic activity.²

Climate change: current and future impacts in ASEAN

The issue of climate change is a major concern to ASEAN, as Southeast Asia is one of the most at-risk regions in the world to the impacts on climate change.

4. One factor that could harness ASEAN growth is climate change, as the ASEAN region is among the most vulnerable regions in the world to its impacts. Indeed, according to The Long-Term Climate Risk Index (CRI),³ 3 out of 10 ASEAN countries (Myanmar, Philippines and Thailand) are among the 10 countries most affected by impacts of climate related extreme weather events (storms, floods, heatwaves, etc.) from 2000 to 2019.
5. Considering the overall standings (out of 180 countries), Myanmar ranks 2nd, Philippines ranks 4th, Thailand ranks 9th, Vietnam ranks 13th, Cambodia ranks 14th, Laos ranks 52nd, Indonesia ranks 72nd, Malaysia ranks 116th, Brunei ranks 176th, and Singapore ranks 179th.

³ The Long-Term Climate Risk Index (CRI) is a composite index that analyses and ranks to what extent countries and regions have been affected by impacts of climate related extreme weather events (storms, floods, heatwaves, etc.). It scores from 1=most affected to 200=least affected, annual averages.

POSITION PAPER
Competitiveness of ASEAN Countries: the state-of-the-art as measured by The European House - Ambrosetti "Global Attractiveness Index 2024"
High Level Dialogue on ASEAN-Italy Economic Relations
Bangkok, Thailand, November 5-6, 2024

Today, the ASEAN countries are one of the fastest-growing regions of the world. If considered as a single economy, the ASEAN region is the 3rd largest economy in Asia and the 5th largest in the world after the US, China, Japan and Germany. In addition, it is becoming pivotal on the international scene and, in fact, in 2023, it ranked 3rd among the top-10 countries for both exports and imports and was the 3rd top recipient of Foreign Direct Investment in the world.

In 2016, The European House - Ambrosetti launched the Global Attractiveness Index (GAI) research project with the aim to make available to business leaders, investors and policymakers an innovative and highly reliable country index that can offer a representative profile of the attractiveness and competitive sustainability of countries.

According to the Global Attractiveness Index 2024, ASEAN countries are among the best performing ones in Asia. Specifically, in 2024, the cumulative ranking value of the 10 ASEAN countries reached 418.6 points performing better than Asian countries (with a 4 times relative speed of growth); among the 22 Asian countries, 5 of the top-10 countries in the GAI index are from ASEAN, 5 ASEAN countries are in the top-10 Asian countries for GAI positions gained in the last year, and 5 ASEAN countries are among the top-10 Asian countries for GAI ranking value gained in the last year.

Outstanding results were also seen in the 4 pillars (Openness, Innovation, Efficiency and Endowment) of the GAI index compared to the previous year.

ASEAN socio-economic analysis and main trends

1. Established in 1967, ASEAN currently includes 10 member states (Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam) and, with a population of 660 million people, it is the 3rd largest region in the world, after China and India. Also, ASEAN (if considered as a single economy) is the 3rd largest economy in Asia and the 5th largest in the world after the US, China, Japan and Germany.
2. Today, ASEAN is one of the fastest-growing regions of the world, reporting in the last decade (2014-2023) a cumulative GDP growth of +46.2%. More specifically, in 2023, the region recorded a GDP of about 3.8 trillion US Dollars (+3.5% compared to 2022) and a growth rate of +4.7% is expected for 2024, above the global average, which is estimated to be +4.1% in 2024.¹
3. Linked with its strong growth, Southeast Asia is becoming pivotal on the international scene in both commercial trade and attraction of foreign investment. In international trade, ASEAN is today one of the largest trading areas in the world and in 2023 consolidated its 3rd position among the top 10 countries, after China and the United States, for both exports and imports, with a value of 1,818 billion US Dollars and 1,716 billion US Dollars, respectively.

Italy-ASEAN Economic Relations can generate mutual positive spillovers

There is space for more improvement: in 2023 Italy is the 17th trading partner of ASEAN (6th in Europe), but gained 5 positions compared to 2018

First 20 trading partners of the ASEAN region (export+import, € billion), 2023

THERE IS SPACE FOR IMPROVEMENT: new important opportunities are opening up in some key sectors (1/3)

ENERGY TRANSITION

Italy has a large experience from the legislative and regulatory point of view in renewable energy and world-leading companies focused on ensuring a viable transition to green energy, together with hundreds of small and medium sized firms specialized in the production of highly technological products

One of the challenges that ASEAN faces, where Italy's expertise and technological capabilities may prove useful, is expanding and securing the electricity grid such that increasing shares of renewable energy can be effectively integrated within the system

INDUSTRY 4.0

ASEAN's continued digitization is a comparative advantage for the region as it aims to become a global manufacturing hub. Given its simultaneous specialization in IT and digitization, Industry 4.0 is a natural fit for the ASEAN economy

The process towards Industry 4.0 can further strengthen this crucial link between Italy and ASEAN

THERE IS SPACE FOR IMPROVEMENT: new important opportunities are opening up in some key sectors (2/3)

SPACE INDUSTRY

As ASEAN countries continue to prioritize resilience and innovation, high-tech sectors like Space offer critical support to ensure business continuity, regional stability and cooperation in highly strategic sector

Italy, renowned for its expertise in advanced technology and research, has much to contribute to ASEAN's growth in these areas

The potential for joint projects, technology transfer, and knowledge sharing is significant, providing both regions with unique collaborative advantages

CREATIVE INDUSTRY

Creative and cultural industries such as gaming, animation, fashion and design are booming thanks to the technological and digital transformation that is taking place worldwide at an unprecedented rate According to UNCTAD Creative Economy Outlook 2024, creative services exports surged by 29% to $1.4 trillion in 2022, while creative goods exports increased by 19% to $713 billion

In the creative economy ASEAN is becoming an important player in the export and import of creative goods

However, the development of the creative industries in the area is uneven

THERE IS SPACE FOR IMPROVEMENT: new important opportunities are opening up in some key sectors (3/3)

TRANSPORTATION

An interesting opportunity has risen from ASEAN need for more resilient infrastructures, to be developed in the following years, concerning railways, road transport, sea transport, air transport

Given the vast amount of projects ongoing (also through PNRR), Italy's expertise in high-velocity trains, shipping and air transport and its firms' extensive know-how can surely provide a useful contribution to ASEAN's development in this area

AGRI-BUSINESS

On the demand side, population and income growth should lead to a continued increase in demand for food, together with a more varied demand across different products. This implies the creation of new opportunities for businesses operating in the sector

In the face of these rapid developments, Italy's world-renowned experience in this sector is extremely valuable
In fact, Italy has vast experience in both the mass production of foodstuffs and the production of higher-end organic foodstuff

Thank you for the attention
